HOMAGE PAID BY CO-WORKERS AT BOYCE BIER

Burial is Made Here After Services In Chester.

PASTORS PRAISE

Four Ministers Aid In Church Tribute Monday Night.

The body of Charles R. Boyce, secretary-treasurer of the Harker Pottery company, banker, City hospital trustee and church worker, was buried at Riverview cemetery today after funeral services attended by the family, intimate friends and business associates in the home at 205 California avenue, Chester.

A message written by Mr. Boyce during his illness was read at the services by Rev. Paul E. Secrest, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, while prayer was offered by a Mt. Union college classmate, Rev. Dr. Edwin Kirby, superintendent of the Akron district of the Methodist Episcopal church and former East Liverpool pastor.

The pallbearers were Joseph Betz, W. E. Dunlap, Thomas H. Fisher, H. N. Harker, J. S. Hilbert, Dr. Clyde R. Larkins, Sterling Newell, of Cleveland, and Adnah White.

Public Services Monday Night.

Rev. Secrest, Dr. Kirby and Rev. Dr. Warren O. Hawkins, superintendent of the Canton district of the Methodist Episcopal church, and Rev. Dr. Isaac L. Wood of Niles, former Barnesville district superintendent, also former pastor here, were in charge of the public funeral services in the First Methodist Episcopal church here Monday night. Rev. Dr. Danforth, of Canton, also occupied a place on the church platform.

Hundreds of Mr. Boyce's coworkers attended the night services. They included employes of the Harker Pottery company; fellow trustees, nurses and the medical staff of the City hospital; members of the Power class of the First Methodist Episcopal church of which he was teacher; officials and employes of the First National bank, of which he was vice-president; and Federal Building and Loan company of which he was director; representatives of the United States Potters' association and National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, and East Liverpool, Chester and Newell friends.

The body lay in state in front of the pulpit after the services, with the pallbearers, W. O. Bloor, Mark Brownlow, Olen H. Dawson, Edwin Kaiser, William T. McNutt and Henry Williams, while the ushers were Sidney Bloor, Fred McGillivray, John Hayes, Frances Lang, Donald Reed, T. F. Scheffer and Neil Shope, serving as a guard of honor.

"I am the resurrection and the life. Who believes in Me shall never die. The Lord gave and the Lord taketh away" intoned Rev. Secrest as the services began.

Accompanied by Mrs. Danks Cochran Blaine H. Cochran sang, "Face to Face."

Mrs. Hazel Griffith Moore and Mrs. Millicent Du Bois accompanied by Mrs. T. C. Flick, sang "Asleep in Jesus."

Dr. Kirby then offered a prayer. "We are in Thy house. We are before Thee. Our hearts are filled in sorrow because of him who lived and died triumphantly. In tribute to him the city pauses, . . ."

Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Dubois, accompanied by Mrs. Flick then sang "Lead Kindly Light".

Rev. Secrest's Tribute.

"In a beautiful way by the avenue of song, by the great words of God uttered by the Rev. Dr. Wood and by the tender, beautiful prayer of Dr. Kirby we have thus far been led to a realization of the overwhelming loss we have suffered and the bereavement which has brought us together," declared Rev. Secrest, the pastor, at the outset of a brief address.

"We have not willingly let him go. We, standing helplessly at his side, watched him go step by step into the shadow, clear-eyed, unafraid. If tears and prayers had prevailed he would have been with us now. Into the deep power of the Higher Presence he slipped away.

"Great is the mystery of death. We try to glimpse the other shore as like a ship, men go out of the harbor never to return. Beside that mystery stands a great, luminous word-faith. It is not a word of superstition or credulity. It is one that challenges the best in any of us. He held to the last to the brand of faith of a Christian man.

"Charles Boyce was no ordinary man. His shadow lies athwart this entire community. He gave himself unsparingly to every good cause in the community. He has kept the faith in his business transactions with his loved ones and with the church."

Dr. Hawkins offered the concluding prayer.

$250,000 FIRE AT MARIETTA

Business District Saved From Complete Destruction.

MARIETTA, O., April 10.—Fire raged unchecked for more than two hours through the downtown section of Marietta early today before firemen succeeded in hemming it in and saving the business district from complete destruction.

Damage was estimated by officials to exceed a quarter of a million dollars.

Fire departments of Marietta and Parkersburg, W. Va., poured more than a dozen streams of water into the still burning buildings for hours. The scene of the blaze was the area facing the Washington county courthouse.

Investment, Music Companies Hit

The heaviest damage was in the Marietta Investment company and in the three-story building of the Wainright Music company, in whose storage department the fire started from an undetermined cause.

Loss by the investment concern was estimated at $75,000 and by the Wainright company at $50,000.

Considerable damage, principally by water, was caused in the eight-story harness manufacturing plant of the Strecker Brothers company, with loss estimated at $35,000 to $40,000.

About $20,000 to $30,000 loss was sustained by the Pioneer Savings, Loan and Building company.

Water Causes Loss

Other structures damaged included the J. C. Penney department store and the Sears, Roebuck & Company store.

The fire, discovered shortly after midnight, had gained considerable headway.

While water damage caused considerable loss in the harness plant, a sprinkler system was credited with checking partially the spread of the flames in that building.

COUNTY ASKS RELIEF WORKS RULE CHANGES

Lack of Skilled Men Delays City Hall, Courthouse.

STATE WILL ACT

Wellsville, Guilford Dam Jobs Start Wednesday.

Columbiana County Relief Administrator E. M. Lowry today awaited a ruling by state relief executives on suggested changes in the works relief setup to enable the employment of skilled men who are not on certified lists, in order to overcome delay in the construction of the $149,000 municipal building here and the $105,000 courthouse project at Lisbon.

District Engineer Frank Ritter of New Philadelphia, who conferred with Lowry Monday afternoon, promised to confer with state relief officials today. In the meantime, comparatively little work was being done on the new city hall or the courthouse remodeling.

Plans Two New Projects

Lowry also announced that 30 men, holding unworked relief orders in Center township, would be assigned to the Guilford dam concrete facing and 25 men, in the works relief division, would be given jobs on the Aten avenue storm sewer prbject in Wellsville, which will be started Wednesday.

"We have the money, but we cannot spend it because we cannot obtain skilled workers from certified relief lists, with the result that work is being delayed on the East Liverpool municipal building and the Lisbon courthouse," Lowry said.

Relief Order Work Ruling Made

At the same time, Service-Safety Director Edgar B. Laughlin here and Lowry warned applicants for relief that henceforth they must work out in advance all food orders. Laughlin said that East Liverpool applicants for food orders to be placed with grocers next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday must apply at relief headquarters here this week for work slips. Failure to comply with the request will result in a suspension of food orders, it was declared.

Laughlin also said some relief workers have been transferred to the Patterson field stadium in order to expedite the finishing touches, while work is under way on the Chestnut street extension and Oakland sewer projects, which are on a relief order basis.

A truck load of sandstone and other supplies for the municipal building arrived at the West Sixth street site Monday and today. The stone has been stored in the alley and around the structure pending the resumption of operations.

Under the civil works administration 103 projects were approved in Columbiana county, of which 27 have been taken over by the works division of the federal emergency relief administration. Plans for resuming work on part of the other 76 are expected to be worked out by the county executives. A number of the projects approved but never started probably will be dropped, it was said.

Assassins Miss In Attempt To Kill Son Of Former Spanish Dictator

Shot Fired at Jose DeRivera, Leader of Fascist Movement Goes Wild in Madrid.

By The Associated Press.

MADRID, April 10—Assassins today missed in an attempt to kill Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera, son of the former dictator of Spain, and himself a leader of the Fascist movement.

The attempt took place in the central section of Madrid. The shot went wild.

Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera, who is 32 years old, claims that 100,000 members are enrolled in his falange espanola or Spanish phalanx.

The members wear blue shirts and symbols formed of crossed arrows. They have staged demonstrations throughout Spain and many of their members are known to be adherents to former King Alfonso although de Rivera and his lieutenants say their organization is not monarchial.

De Rivera and his men seek sufficient seats in the Spanish cortes or congress to form a working minority in the government.

The phalanx promised:

"Real liberty for all to be used as members of a strong and free nation. Nobody will be allowed to disturb or injure the forces of the state and violence is legal when it is employed to support an ideal that necessitates its use. However, violence will never be used as an instrument of oppression."

SALES TAX HIT BY MERCHANTS

Pennsylvania and West Virginia Situations Are Stressed.

The Retail Merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce today, urging the Ohio legislature to reject a proposed three per cent retail sales tax which must be paid by the consumer, stressed the fact that Pennsylvania abandoned a similar levy after six months' trial, while a like measure which became effective a week ago is causing confusion in another border state, West Virginia.

The statement, setting forth the belief that the proposed enactment would cripple business, said a three per cent levy in Ohio would cost East Liverpool a total of $336,932 a year, or more than the total annual payroll of $320,805 of the general merchandise group here, and almost one fourth of the total annual payroll of $1,565,417 of the combined retail trade here.

Text of Statement.

The merchants' statement follows:

"When the Legislature convenes in Columbus today, the first thing on the calendar in the house of representatives is the much discussed general sales tax. This proposed sales tax has already been defeated twice, largely because of the strong opposition voiced by the buying public and the merchants.

"The proposed tax is House bill No. 46, known as the Barr bill and provides that a tax equal to three percent on every retail dealer's sales, except groceries, shall be collected from the merchants monthly, from December 1, 1934, to December 31, 1936. The bill further provides that this three percent tax must in all cases be paid by the consumer in the form of an addition to the price of merchandise.

"The retail merchants of East Liverpool have passed a resolution opposing this tax and the following statement is a summary of their position in this matter:

Will Cripple Business.

"A general tax on retail sales will seriously cripple business and is in direct conflict with the national administration's program for economic recovery. The proposed sales tax will decrease the buying power of all wage earners and impose a corresponding hardship upon merchants. For the first time in four years wage earners are finding a small place in the family budget for goods long needed but which during the depression they were unable to buy. To begin at once to cut down the wage earners newly restored buying power by a 3 percent tax on practically everything he uses, is a violation of the sound principle that taxes should

LEVY ON SALES IS NEAR THIRD TEST IN OHIO

Backed by Governor, Bill Vote Seen Wednesday.

HOUSE IS READY

Secondary Matters Are on Calendar In Senate.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 10.—The sales tax moved today towards its third test in the legislature.

Bearing administration support, the proposed tax was on the house calendar for consideration this afternoon with indications a vote would come tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the senate planned to limit its activities to secondary matters while its special investigation committee kept a spotlight on the state's liquor monopoly system.

Created to investigate the liquor control department, the committee held its first public hearing last night and then ordered an exhaustive examination of numerous complaints against the control set-up.

Hughes Welcomes Inquiry

Liquor Control Director John A. Hughes, reiterating that he welcomed the inquiry, attended the hearing, but withheld comment on a demand for his removal and on charges that the department had discriminated in the handling of complaints against some holders of permits to sell liquor by the glass.

Committee Chairman Carl D. Sheppard (R) of Akron told fellow investigators complaints involving civil service appointments, leases of state store sites and other matters had come from 33 counties.

Abolition of Hughes' position was urged by George Strain of Columbus, representing the building trades council, who recommended control of the liquor department be left solely in the hands of the liquor board of five members. Strain said the monopoly system should be called the "Ohio Hotel Patronage Whip."

Sales Tax Twice Rejected.

Twice rejected by the legislature, the sales tax — this time a three per cent levy—was offered again by Gov. George White as an imperative part of a $70,000,000 financing program intended to bring back revenue lost in the schools and local subdivisions through a five-mill reduction in real estate and tangible personal property taxes.

On the eve of the showdown in the house, Governor White joined with Education Director B. O. Skinner in a strong plea for passage of the program which includes also a chain store tax and an income levy.

"Surely," said the governor, referring to the need for prompt and adequate school financing, "no opponent of the tax program now before the legislature will pretend that its effects are more to be feared than the lapse into a juvenile delinquency, ignorance and crime."

Dr. Skinner declared the state's schools face a $19,000,000 deficit on current operating expenses and said many schools will be forced to limit their terms to five or six months unless early relief is provided.

Spectators At Investigation

The senate investigation of the liquor monopoly system had its inception in reports that politics had an important part in the selection of liquor store personnel. Spectators jammed the senate smoking room in which the first hearing was held.

Sharp criticism of inspection methods was voiced by T. M. Stamm of the Columbus Hotel and Restaurant Employes association, who said the present system made it "easy to frame" permit holders in order to revoke their licenses.

Robert Shade of Lima, who took an examination for liquor store clerk, told the committee he wanted his civil service papers reviewed by "some disinterested person." He was placed 13th on a list of eligibles, he said.

The tax advance will not be sufficient to cover all outstanding bills, but will be used as far as possible, school officials said.

Niles Kidnaper Must Serve His Maximum Term Of 20 Years

State Board of Paroles Rules Against Abductor of 11-Year-Old DeJute Boy.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 10.—John Demarco, Niles kidnaper, must serve his maximum term of 20 years for harboring and concealing the 11-year-old Jimmy DeJute Jr., who was snatched on his way to school, on March 2, 1932, the state board of paroles decided today.

Young DeJute, son of a Niles contractor, was grabbed by Dowell Hargraves and Dominick A. Laure and taken to the Hillside club near Niles where he was held for ransom. The boy was found four days later by police who raided the club. Demarco and Hargraves were hidden with the boy behind a false wall. Laure was absent in Youngstown, attempting to contact the boy's father.

Nation-wide Interest in Case

The case attracted nationwide attention, coming as it did at the height of the excitment incident to the kidnaping of the Charles A. Lindbergh baby.

Hargraves and Laure were sentenced to life terms. They refused to implicate Demarco and he was charged with harboring and concealing the child.

According to stories told the prosecuting attorney of Trumbull county at the time, Hargraves and Laure were hired by a ring leader who was not apprehended. The prosecutor recently asked Cuyahoga county authorities to release to Trumbull county Tony DeRocco arrested in Cleveland on a robbery charge. De Rocco is wanted in Trumbull county in connection with the kidnaping.

Second Blow at Kidnapers

This is the second time within a week the parole board has continued the case of a kidnaper to the maximum term. Last week Nellie Thatcher Newman and Frank Hall, convicted of kidnaping E. Lockhart and Neff Sadie Richards of Rome, O., were ordered to serve their maximum terms of 20 years. They were convicted before the enactment of the present law which provides a life sentence for kidnaping.

TUGWELL QUOTED

Witness Represented By Former Senator James A. Reed.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10 — Dr. William A. Wirt suggested to the house committee today that it summon Lewis W. Douglas, budget director, and William I. Westervelt, of Chicago, for testimony about what he called the proposed "brain truster revolution."

Speaker Rainey today denied to newspapermen that he ever had told William I. Westervelt that "The government was going to take over some industries.

By CLARENCE M. WRIGHT, Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Dr. William A. Wirt named three women and two men connected with the administration and a newspaperman today as having been present with him at a dinner in September when he heard assertions of a plot to bring communism.

Testifying to the house investigating committee, while hundreds crowded the huge caucus room to hear, he said they were:

Robert Bruere, chairman of the textile code advisory committee; David C. Coyle, of the public works administration; Hildegrade Kneeland and Mary Taylor, department of agriculture economists; Alice Barrows of the education bureau at the interior department; and Lawrence Todd, a representative here of the Soviet News agency, Tass.

Wirt Quotes Miss Kneeland.

Wirt quoted Miss Kneeland as having quoted Rexford G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, as having said he "would have closed the grain and stock exchange if he had the power and that he termed the apparent recovery a speculative spree."

The witness added "Miss Kneeland said that Tugwell said; 'If we begin to plan nationally we must change once and for all our statutes and constitution.'"

He also quoted Miss Kneeland as quoting the assistant secretary of agriculture to the effect that "it was impossible to have a planned economy and have big business operating industry."

"Miss Kneeland," Wirt continued, "said Tugwell said: 'We must undo a century or more of development. Untangling and removing of these tissues will be almost like dispensing with civilization itself."

Represented by former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri as counsel, Wirt was stopped again and again by members of the committee as he sought to discuss the administration program.

Wirt's Statement of Conversation

Wirt's statement that brought about the inquiry was to this effect in part about the dinner conversation:

"The most surprising statement made to me was: 'We believe that we have Mr. Roosevelt in the middle of a swift stream and that the current is so strong that he cannot back or escape from it. We believe that we can keep Mr. Roosevelt there until we are ready to supplant him with a Stalin. We all think that Mr. Roosevelt is only the Kerensky of this revolution."

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver and bowel poisons before breakfast

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish tang which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

ROBOT CAST IN SCHOOL PLAY

Mechanical Man Interlocutor in Minstrel Show.

By The Associated Press.

MARION, O., April 10—A mechanical man, 6 feet tall—and a native at that—is the latest thing in minstrel show interlocutors hereabouts.

Three students of the Edison junior high school industrial arts class designed and built "Reuben Robot," and sent him through the middleman's part at the schools minstrel show recently.

For 30 minutes, the Mechanical figure did a first-rate job for Mrs. Jones and Mr. Zones, and as announcer of the various songs. He's worth 75 cents in materials.

The boys, Homer Haines, Denton Richie and Franklin Pump, each 17, built him of tin cans and metal scraps for that cost. They touched him up with paint, put some clothing on him, and there he was.

The assembly job took several months. Controlled by electrical attachments leading to a keyboard back of the scenes, Reuben rolls and blinks his eyes, one at a time and both; yawns, waves, snaps a formidable set of teeth and wiggles his ears.

Spoken words, synchronized with the movement of his mouth and arms, emanate from a loud speaker attachment extending back stage.

He was a hit and other groups want to use him now.

O. C. Ice, industrial arts class instructor, aided the boys in building Reuben.

LAZARUS AND THE RICH MAN, BY DORE

The Life Of Our Lord

By CHARLES DICKENS

Written 85 years ago by the celebrated English author for his own children, since kept as a precious family secret and receiving now publication in The Review. An exact transcription of the manuscript, retaining the author's own spelling and punctuation.

CHAPTER THE SEVENTH

Part Two

NOW the Pharisees received these lessons from our Saviour scornfully; for they were rich, and covetous, and thought themselves superior to all mankind. As a warning to them, Christ related this Parable:—OF DIVES AND LAZARUS.

'There was a certain richman who was clothed in purple and fine linen, and fared sumptuously every day. And there was a certain beggar, named Lazarus, who was laid at his gate, full of sores, and desiring to be fed with the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table. Moreover, the dogs came and licked his sores.

'And it came to pass that the Beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom—Abraham had been a very good man who lived many years before that time, and was taken in Heaven. The rich man also died, and was buried. And in Hell, he lifted up his eyes, being in torments, and saw Abraham afar off, and Lazarus. And he cried and said, 'Father Abraham have mercy on me, and send Lazarus that he may dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue, for I am tormented in this flame. But Abraham said, Son, remember that in thy life time thou receiv'st good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things. But now, he is comforted, and thou art tormented.'

And among other Parables, Christ said to these same Pharisees, because of their pride, That two men once went up into the Temple, to pray; of whom, one was a Pharisee, and one a Publican. The Pharisee said, 'God, I thank Thee, that I am not unjust as other men are, or bad as this Publican is!' The Publican, standing afar off, would not lift up his eyes to Heaven, but struck his breast, and only said, 'God be merciful to me, a Sinner!" And God,—Our Saviour told them—would be merciful to that man rather than the other, and would be better pleased with his prayer, because he made it with a humble and a lowly heart.

THE PHARISEES were so angry at being taught these things, that they employed some spies to ask Our Saviour questions, and try to entrap Him into saying something which was against the Law. The Emperor of that country, who was called Caesar, having commanded tribute money to be regulary paid to him by the people, and being cruel against any one who disputed his right to it, these spies thought they might, perhaps, induce our Saviour to say it was an unjust payment, and so to bring himself under the Emperor's displeasure Therefore, pretending to be very humble, they came to Him and said, "Master you teach the word of God rightly, and do not respect persons on account of their high station. Tell us, is it lawful that we should pay tribute to Caesar?"

Christ, who knew their thoughts, replied, "Why do you ask? Shew me a penny." They did so. "Whose image, and whose name, is this upon it?" he asked them. They said "Caesar's." "Then," said He, "Render unto Caesar, the things that are Caesar's.

So they left him; very much enraged and disappointed that they could not entrap Him. But our Savior knew their hearts and thoughts as well as He knew that other men were conspiring against Him, and that he would soon be put to Death.

• • • •

AS HE was teaching them thus, he sat near the Public Treasury where people as they passed along the street, were accustomed to drop money into a box for the poor; and many rich persons passing while Jesus sat there, had put in a great real of money. At last there came a poor Widow, who dropped in two mites, each half a farthing in value, and then went quietly away. Jesus, seeing her do this as he rose to leave the place, called his disciples about him, and said to them that that poor widow had been more truly charitable than all the rest who had given money that day; for the others were rich and would never miss what they had given, but she was very poor, and had given those two mites which might have bought her bread to eat.

Let us never forget what the poor widow did, when we think we are charitable.

LUCKIES are All-Ways kind to your throat

—so round, so firm, so fully packed no loose ends

We like to tell about the finer tobaccos in Luckies—the choicest Turkish and domestic, and only the mild, clean center leaves—they taste better—then "It's toasted"—for throat protection. But we're just as proud of the way Luckies are made. They're so round and firm, so free from loose ends. That's why Luckies always "keep in condition"—do not dry out. Luckies are always—in all-ways!—kind to your throat.

Watch Out For Rocks

Two strange catastrophies in which nature brought death in an unusual way call attention to the possibility of using NRA activities to protect Ohio against such incidents.

A rock which fell into a narrow Norway inlet wiped out villages and killed scores. Another rock fall in New York sent death boulders hurtling down the face of Storm King mountain resulting in three fatalities and injuring others.

Many Ohio highways offer constant danger of such accidents. It is no uncommon thing, in driving along roads cut into steep hillsides, to come across signs bearing the legend, "Danger—Watch Out For Falling Rock." Just what possible protection these warnings provide is obscure. A great rock which decided to tumble down from a high hill gives little warning and the hapless motorist caught in its path can do nothing about it.

A more practical help would be to send competent men out to the danger spots to note the rocks which are in danger of falling, then block the roads temporarily and roll these menaces to life and property down out of the way.

It is not easy on the nerves of timid travelers to face signs suggesting to them that their lives are likely to be crushed out as they drive along the highways. To remove the danger would be to make some of the state's most picturesque roads vastly more inviting to tourists.

Test

All is not quiet on the automobile front. President Roosevelt's compromise, establishing a board to rule on issues between management and labor in the industry, is under test.

Theoretically, the compromise is workable. Actually, its effectiveness depends on the ability of those concerned with it to demonstrate that it is workable. Some of them, it is possible, are more interested in bringing about its downfall thar in making it effective. It did not remove any grievances, but merely provided a means of arbitration and control. Therefore, if it is to be upheld, it must proceed quickly with its functions. Members of the board are helpless without the cooperation of management and labor. Both must put their shoulders to the wheel or jeopardize their common interests.

Difficulties foreseen when it was promulgated on the eve of a threatened disturbance in the automobile industry are threatening the compromise. At the end of last week more than 1,500 employes of a concern manufacturing automobile parts walked out. Their action was an overt sign of conditions which yet may reach just such a climax as the compromise forestalled. The fundamental issue, trade unionism, still exists.

There has been no change in the public attitude. It is still the general conviction that a serious disturbance in the automobile industry would prove to be a serious disturbance throughout the nation. It is a matter closely affected with the general welfare. Provision has been made to facilitate arbitration between management and labor. Failure to [illegible] the possibilities of arbitration before striking automatically will alienate public sympathy.

See The Wirt!

The United States has been three-sheeted and ballyhooed to an emotional pitch for the first appearance of Dr. William A. Wirt. Whether or not the doctor has anything important to say in support of his recent charge that the "brain trust" is plotting to overthrow the government, a good show is assured when he appears before a congressional investigating committee Tuesday.

Three Democrats and two Republicans will be ringmasters for what they look forward as a circus. They will be interested in making Dr. Wirt do various things, according to their political views. The Democrats have promised that they intend to make him jump back and forth through hoops; the Republicans threaten to turn him loose to rage up and down in the arena if he so desires. They don't want him to hold back anything that might make the Democratic party uncomfortable, but unfortunately they are two against three.

It will be lucky if the affair goes off without the intervention of the National Association for Prevention of Cruelty to Witnesses. Whatever Dr. Wirt really is, there is going to be a strong attempt by his Democratic inquisitors to make him look like a monkey. At the same time it will be the intention of the two Republicans on the committee to make him roar and rage like a lion. Gary, Ind., which seems to set a lot of store by him, will be lucky to get him back alive.

The Long-Suffering Senate

In 1937 Huey P. Long's term in the United States senate expires. It is a long time for his fellow statesmen to wait. Instead of becoming more amiable, the Louisiana gentleman seems to sharpen his political rancor day by day. He simply does not fit into the senatorial environment.

The pages of the Congressional Record for last Thursday reflect sharply the cutting edge of his distinctive tactics. He happened on that day to tangle with Senator Harrison of Mississippi. Senator Harrison holds a reputation as a capable man in his own defense, yet he was pressed to the limit by the skill of his Louisiana neighbor.

It might be said that Mr. Long's advantage in such affairs depends on his willingness to take advantage. He does not do his fighting with powder puffs, nor even with boxing gloves. Whatever his physical prowess may be, in debate he is a ruthless termagant. Anything is fair that he chooses to use. In his tussle with Senator Harrison, he went so far as to threaten to take the stump in Mississippi against the senator's reelection.

The senate deplores the presence of this unconventional and occasionally unscrupulous politician in its midst. He ruthlessly violates its conventions. With him senatorial courtesy is a vague and elastic rule, to be adapted to his needs or ignored wholly. He is callous to the feelings of his fellows, though remaining peculiarly sensitive to attacks upon himself. Apparently, Thursday's bitter exchange was prompted almost wholly by Senator Harrison's insulting remark that "the opinion of the senator from Louisiana is less respected by the membership of this body as whole and by the country than that of any other senator."

It is difficult, nevertheless, for the country to look upon Senator Long as an unmitigated evil. As much as any one man has been able to do he has upset the smugness of the senate — that smugness which has caused the senate sometimes to be described as the most exclusive club in the United States. In his capacity as a political irritant, Senator Long forces senators to defend a great many things that would not have been easy to defend in the past had there been occasion to fight for them. Regardless of his own sincerity, which is wide open to questioning, his antics many times seem to have the effect of testing the sincerity of his enemies.

Electoral Systems

The present method of electing presidents is far from perfect. Many changes have been proposed, ranging from election by popular vote to revision of the electoral college. Senator Norris, author of a constitutional amendment which would establish a proportional basis for electoral votes, once advocated election by popular vote. He has traveled all the way from one extreme to the other, but his bid for favor on the proportional plan is much stronger than was his advocacy of direct voting.

The obvious flaw in the system he would establish arises from a flaw in the operation of representative democracy in southern states. Under his plan a candidate's electoral vote in each state would be proportionate to his popular vote in the state. No matter how many candidates were in the field, each would get some portion of the electoral vote, even if it were no larger than one-hundredth of a vote.

This would be a distinct boon to the Democratic party, which controls the votes of southern states. With a consistent nucleus of strength in those states plus the votes Democrats could poll in other states, the party would hold a tremendous advantage in presidential elections. This feature of the Norris amendment will need to be scrutinized closely before the country can believe that the operation of democracy would be assisted by its adoption.

Another Redskin In The Dust

Sturdy New Englanders used to regard the tomato—love apple, they called it—as a poisonous vegetable, the more dangerous because of its attractive appearance. It took a long time to scotch that particular bit of ignorance. Even in Ohio the mistake had gained a foothold, thereby showing how prejudices spread themselves if not checked.

Now in all probability the belief that tomatoes were poisonous sprang from some individual's unfortunate experience with them.

Others listened to his story and abstemiously avoided tomatoes ever after. Throughout history men have scorned certain edibles purely on somebody else's say-so. Americans do not eat dogs or ants, although their brethren in other lands find them eminently satisfactory.

It is with a less important matter than food itself that the following information is concerned. It is, rather, the process of eating. Dr. Hiram E. Essex of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., is authority for the statement that the practice of drinking water while eating speeds the digestive process to a noticeable extent. The doctor does not speak from prejudice. He and his associates investigated and found out there was nothing to the common theory that digestion is hampered by introduction of water into the stomach at mealtime. Their conclusion is passed along for what it may be worth. Whether it can prevail against an ancient prejudice remains to be seen.

Gambling For Taxes

American public opinion condemns gambling, for sufficient reasons. The laws of the United States forbid lotteries and gambling enterprises generally, individual states also forbid gambling. But the city of New York suggests a lottery to raise money, and a race track gambling system with "mutuel betting," that the state may gets its part. It is suggested elsewhere that slot machines, which swindle their victims outrageously, shall be taxed for revenue and thus practically recognized. When Americans lost confidence in themselves, they go far on the despondent shells. Has this country sunk so low that its government must imitate the common gambler?

Port Wine Debate

F. P. De Aragao E. Costa, the distinguished consul of Portugal in San Francisco wants it known that "port wine is a Portuguese industry, the largest in my county, not a Spanish wine like sherry. This wine, in spite of many world imitations, cannot be produced in any part of the world outside of that region of Portugal bathed by the River Douro in the north part of my country. This wine, according to the regulations, must be always exported from the city of Porto (Oporto or Port) after which it is named."

The original port wine came from Portugal, the best port wines still comes from Portugal, and will probably continue to do so for many years. The British have long appreciated the merits of good port. To be a "one-bottle" or two, or three-bottle man meant, in old England that you could drink one, two or three bottles of port wine. Pitt was at least a two-bottle man and, while he died young, port did not interfere with his ability to keep Napoleon out of England. Port, in moderation, is a wonderful stimulant for invalids and the old.

California and other states in this country produce excellent port, light and dark, but nothing equals the products of Portugal as yet.

What Knowledge Does Man Need?

What knowledge does a man need? How foolish is our educational system that wastes youth's period of intellectual curiosity on dry facts that will never be used. What is wrong about a plan under which young men, violently interested in a "scavenger hunt," or tennis game, are bored to dreariness in their classes?

What would you suggest that would lend a semblance of human intelligence to civil service examinations? The mayor of Pittsburgh opposes our present system of questions, asking:

"What difference does it make to a cop how far it is to the moon?"

He mentions a friends who flunked an examination because he replied "three polar bears and three walruses," when asked to name six animals living in the Arctic circle.

New York Day By Day

NEW YORK, April 10.—Many boys about town are credited as inventors of that tasty and highly potent libation—the Side Car cocktail. Tippy Gray, Jay O'Brien, Ben Finney and Harry Craddock of London's Savoy bar are among legendary sponsors. But not one had anything to do with it.

Here is the true, unimpeachable story of its origin. Basil Woon, Erskine Gwynne and Joe Thompson arrived in rue Danou one evening at proper time for tiffen. John, the bartender at Henri's for years, was late. But finally half-staggered in with a bleeding forehead.

He explained his motor cycle with a side car was hors de combat, likewise his wife, but here he was and what would it be, gentlemen? Thompson ordered Cointreau, Woon, a fine and Erskine, on the wagon, desired Orange bitters. Dazed from his mishap, John thought they were the ingredients cocktail crazy Americans had conceived and shook them up together. Et voila, the Side Star!

The mixture proved delicious. Each had three and immediately started out to ring door-bells. John has long since retired to his "propriete," for, like all bartenders he has one down in Vaucluse. Now at the local bistro he often recalls to his townsmen how the Side Car was born!

Still a personable juvenile, Ernest Glendenning has completed 31 years on the American stage. Born in England, he made his debut in a walk-on part with his parents. In his day he has played more than 300 different roles and can still show youngsters how to carry gloves, twirl a stick and tilt a silk hat.

Among newspapermen in New York the sartorial gift is—or was when I saw him last—best expressed by George Buchanan Fyfe. He can wear the white tie, morning coat or plus fours with the sangfroid of a Picadilly blood. It was Fyfe who swung out of Churchill's one sunny noonday with Joe Drum and James Montgomery Flagg. "Ah," cried Frank Ward O'Malley hirpling from a cab. "The Spirit of '76!"

Theatrical folk are trying to coax Raymond Hitchcock's widow, Flora Zabell, to sponsor an Armenian restaurant, one of those select, shadowy places where talk is not so important as food excellence. Miss Zabell, daughter of an Armenian scholar, has, since her retirement from the stage, long been hostess to her friends at quiet little spreads at her Great Neck estate and knows all the cusine subtleties of her race.

LAST INDIANS IN OHIO.

By J. H. GALBRAITH,
Written for The Associated Press.

Mr. Frank Humphreys of Barber, Mont., refers to a story published several years ago in which it was stated that the last body of indians to be removed from Ohio to western lands was the Wyandots of the reservation near Upper Sandusky in 1943 and says that he distinctly recalls seeing as a boy of 6 years a party of Indians pass through Waynesburg, Ohio, his birthplace, in 1860.

His father explained to him that they were Indians who were being taken by the government to the Osage country in the west. He is positive of the date, 1860, and recalls that it was in the summer time. As this was 17 years later than the removal of the Wyandots, and the removal of the Wyandots was said to have been the last movement of that kind in the state, he wonders how this could be.

Behind The News In

Washington And Wall Street

By PAUL MALLON.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The war scares are blowing over, on the inside at least.

Our official clockers of international affairs whisper that the situation has been materially changed within the last few weeks.

The main change is in Japan. Apparently she has decided to seek by diplomatic and economic aggression, the same prospective spring war with Russia. She has sheathed the sword she has been brandishing around, is calling for peace and extending hands across the sea. Our authorities believe the change is real and will prove lasting.

If Japan does not want a fight, Russia certainly will not provoke it.

There is still dynamite underlying the situation, but it is being well handled.

* * *

Dove.

This was the only war really expected. The European war talk has been recognized as nine-tenths diplomatic hooey from the start.

Too many Europeans feel like Huey Long. Their government may be mad at each other, but the people are not, and it takes the people to fight.

On this basis, the best international expert on the inside here believes that there will not be another war in Europe for at least ten or fifteen years.

That is too long to hold your breath.

* * *

Europe.

What the master insiders confidentially expect is overthrow of the French government. They would not bet a nickel that it will last out the summer.

The truth is that they think France is well on the way to becoming a second rate power. It will take a strong man to save her. Great Britain is laying low and trying to restore her connections with her colonies.

In that respect, Britain is doing right well. The consolidated position of her empire was never better than now. Strong economic bonds have been forged across the seas to the provinces.

The two coming nations of Europe are Italy and Russia. Their influence will grow.

What will happen to Hitler in Germany is anyone's guess.

* * *

Veterans

The underlying reason why President Roosevelt feels so strongly on the veterans' issue lies in his personal experience.

He has two or three acquaintances who are presumptive veterans' cases. They are flagrant cases. They collected disability allowances for injuries presumed to be of war origin but which really had less connection with the war than injuries sustained by agitators for American peace societies. Their cases were jokes, even to themselves.

Mr Roosevelt made up his mind long before he became president that if he ever got in, he would stop that sort of thing.

He still feels that way, despite the over-riding of his veto. You have not heard th last from the White House on the subject.

* * *

Pay Cut

The President does not feel that way about the government pay cut angle.

He opposed that feature in his veto message. But he secretly intended to waive his objections, had the veterans' angle of the legislation been satisfactory. He would actually have signed the bill if it had not included the veterans' provisions.

That means the White House will do no further tinkering with the pay issue.

You can accept that as gospel.

Trick

Despite all the encouragement from the treasury, the proposed constitutional amendment for taxation of tax-exempt securities will not pass this session.

The administration men on Capitol Hill have been permitted to understand that the treasury is in no hurry about it.

The truth seems to be that Treasury Secretary Morgenthau used that amendment in sleight-of-hand style to help his spring financing problem. He appeared almost too willing to testify on the subject and then suggested that the house committee doors be opened so all the world could hear.

The idea unquestionably was that the threat of future taxation would help to create a ready demand for the non-taxable bonds now being offered.

At any rate, that was the effect.

* * *

Downtown

This current house brain trust investigation was curtailed on orders from downtown (the executive district).

This is what held it up for a week. The Big Boys did not want a congressional committee exploring every fool idea held by everyone who happens to be connected with the government.

It would pin those ideas directly on the administration.

By JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, April 10. — Local conservatives are once more rallying to the colors with fresh hopes. You hear bolder talk about fighting the New Deal to a finish than has been audible for thirteen months.

Whence the sudden access of courage? Conservative leaders are themselves surprised at the apparent turn in their fortunes. They had scoffed at the Wirt charges as comedy but it daily becomes more evident that a lot of people have taken them seriously. Inside information indicates that the response to the committee for the nation's circularization of the Wirt pamphlet has been surprisingly large in volume. Over 50,000 requests for extra copies of the pamphlet have been filed. So the leaders have stopped laughing and are feverishly preparing to use the iron while it's hot.

Many who have reluctantly accepted or silently opposed the Roosevelt leadership will now come out into the open. There will be special efforts to make the movement national and the New York angle will be kept deep in the shadows.

Attack

For the first time the President himself is likely to be directly under fire. The plan of attack as at present outlined makes a minor issue of the Brain Trust. The professors will provide merely an emotional background against which to paint a colorful and critical analysis of allegedly socialistic legislation sponsored by the President personally. But note that the anti-New Dealers would not have dared to try these tactics yet had it not been for the fillip of public response to the Wirt agitation.

The AAA and its works will be a particular target because the attacking generals think it's easier to prove their point there than elsewhere. Rexford Tugwell, Jerome Frank and Mordecia Ezekiel might as well stuff their ears with cotton now if they're at all sensitive.

Secretary Wallace will not be spared—especially with regard to milk control. A "dairy defense" group has been organized with the avowed aim of making things hot for him. Anti-New Dealers are encouraged by the enlistment of leading midwest liberals for this sector of the front.

* * *

Allies

The allies against the administration are a curiously diverse combination of elements. Here are some of them:

1.—Conservative wing of the Republican party as a nucleus.

2. Security dealers from all over the country. This group rates it better than even money that the teeth will be extracted from Exchange regulation no matter what the President says.

* * *

3. Probably a majority of the larger banks—although their connection with the movement will be kept carefully under cover.

4. The committee for the nation crowd—who still exert a considerable influence in congress. Many of them are Democrats.

5. Other inflationary groups who want to tinker with money but don't like restrictions on speculation or business profits. Their influence may produce some strange alliances in congress. The last two groups have hardly been popular in Wall Street heretofore—but now it looks as if all may be forgiven for the common cause.

6. Veterans' organizations—also anathema to New York hitherto — against the "red menace." Likewise patriotic societies on the same ground.

7. Quite a few large industrialists on the ground of "too much government in business." Musketeers Sloan, Taylor and Atterbury have already fired sighting shots.

8. Plenty of small business men on the ground that NRA gives big business all the breaks.

9. More than a few farm organizations opposed to AAA.

Nothing could please the allies more than to force a blanket congressional investigation of the New Deal. It remains to be seen whether they can get away with it.

* * *

Counter

Local New Deal supporters doubt that these old team-mates can pull together for long. They expect a successful counter-attack by the administration via direct and indirect appeals to the great majority of unorganized citizens.

* * *

Ticket

You can write it down that the New Deal Democratic ticket this fall will include Lehman for governor and Copeland for senator. Apart from the utility break word has been passed to state party leaders of all factions from Washington that Lehman's renomination is rated essential for party success.

A primary fight against Copeland is now unlikely. He'll be left alone in an effort to regain Tammany support and recapture party harmony.

* * *

Sleuths

Both the stock exchange and the curb are currently trying to check any signs of funny business in the markets. Both have corps of sleuths at work tracking down transactions that look at all peculiar.

The only trouble is that the sleuths aren't always overly brigh.. One of them wanted to know whether the head of a large security company was known to that company as a responsible customer.

* * *

War

Bankers here have had word of close collaboration between France and Belgium against the "German menace." France has just passed a new bill providing for frontier fortifications to bolster up the Belgian line in the north as far as the sea.

* * *

Sidelights

The stock exchange boys are feeling happier these days . . . Recent bid and asked quotations for seats rose to $100-140,000 . . . There must be a boom in Texas . . . Several local landscape gardeners have found their first jobs for years in that state . . . Lloyd's of London is reported willing to bet 6 to 4 on war within a year and 8 to 2 on war within two years.

The Sunlit Road

"As dew to the blooms, and bud to the bee, as scent to the rose, are these memories to me."

TOM T. JONES

Although William Holmes McGuffy, famed author of school readers that powerfully influenced the nation by reason of their general use and who taught his first school in Calcutta, this county, is widely known for his teaching and book-forming tendencies, it is not generally recalled that he was in addition a preacher.

However, after he went to Miami university as a professor of languages he was three years later, in 1829, given a license to preach. He never accepted a place as minister in conjunction with his college duties, but went to Darrtown, four miles away, every Sunday for an interval thereafter and delivered sermons. He thus began preaching at 29.

During his entire lifetime, he later computed following his establishment at the University of Virginia, that he had preached in all about 3,000 sermons. One of the features of his sermons was that not a single one of them had ever been written in advance. He always spoke extemporaneously from the pulpit, he disclosed.

He was one of the students who attended in his teens the Old Stone academy at Darlington, Pa. There he was a student under Rev. Thomas Hughes, who delivered the first sermon in Calcutta where he later taught.

In his student days William Holmes McGuffey was possessed with a fine memory. So keen was his capacity for memorizing that which he had read that he was regarded as a prodigy. He was a consistent reader and student of the Bible. He committed entire books of it to memory. It is quite possible that because of his memorizing of so much of the contents of the Bible that he felt no need at writing his sermons since he could doubtless make reference at will to passages which he wished his hearers to note during his discourse.

The father of William Holmes McGuffey, Alexander McGuffey, had been an Indian fighter under General St. Clair and General "Mad Anthony" Wayne. His father doubtless named his brother who assisted him in the compilation of his school readers for himself and Alexander Hamilton since his name was Alexander Hamilton McGuffey.

About Lincoln's Visit

While East Liverpool and Wellsville residents were yet under the spell brought by the sinking of the river steamer, The Scioto, near Mingo Junction they read the news of the passing of Mary Todd Lincoln, the wife of Abraham Lincoln, who a bit more than 21 years previously passed through both places while accompanying her husband, to his inauguration at Washington.

It is not generally known that she did not start with her distinguished husband from Springfield, Ill., nor that she did not accompany further than New York City where she remained for several days. It will be remembered that he was rushed away from Harrisburgh, Pa., where he spent a part of February 22, the 129th anniversary of the birth of George Washington to dodge possible hostile movements against him in Baltimore, Md., He thus arrived in Washington early on the morning of February 23.

Mrs. Lincoln remained at the Metropolitan hotel in New York City and arrived in Washington March 2. She went to the depot at Springfield, Ill., with him when President-elect Lincoln left the city at 8 on Monday February 11 for Washington. She was among those who waved him goodby.

Later the same day she, accompanied by her sister Mrs. Elizabeth Todd Edwards, the daughter-in-law of Governor Ninian Edwards, in whose home in Springfield she was married and where she subsequently passed away in the summer of 1882 while folks hereabouts were mourning the loss that had come to two cities in the Scioto disaster boarded another train.

Others in her party were two daughters of Mrs. Edwards, a Mrs. Baker and her unmarried sister, and a cousin of Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. Elizabeth Todd Grimsley. It was to the latter that Stephen A. Douglas commented as he grasped and held the hat of Abraham Lincoln on the inauguration platform: If I can not be President myself, I can, at least, be his hatbearer."

* * *

Met in Indianapolis

Mrs. Lincoln and the others of her party caught up with Abraham Lincoln in Indianapolis, Ind., that night, where he was tendered a reception. The combined parties left at 10 the following morning for Cincinnati, where he made two speeches. This was Feb. 12, Abraham Lincoln's 52nd birthday anniversary.

Married as they had been on Nov. 4, 1842, this was the 19th birthday anniversary of her husband which she had been privileged to spend with him following their marriage. The Lincoln train went to Columbus on Feb. 13 where he was the recipient of additional honor. The following day he came to Wellsville and East Liverpool as he proceed to Pittspurgh on his journey eastward.

On the evening of this same day, Feb. 14, 1861, Abraham Lincoln made an address from the Monongahela house porch in Pittsburgh. The people there did not seem to be afraid of the union being threatened. True to their later form they are said to have asked the President-elect to make them a tariff speech.

Just a few weeks after passing on this train through East Liverpool and Wellsville, Colonel Ellsworth was casualty. One of the three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln lived but one year and six days hereafter. He, William Wallace Lincoln, died in the White House on Feb. 20, 1862. This, it is believed, was the beginning of the great mental anguish which Mrs. Lincoln suffered. She was but 42 when she passed through East Liverpool be paid by those who can best afford to pay them. The estimated annual tax to be raised by this bill is $52,000,000, by far the larger part of which will be paid by those on small incomes when they buy the necessities of life. During the depression a great many workers who customarily pay their bill promptly and faithfully have had their earnings so curtailed that they have accumulated indebtedness on homes, household supplies, clothing and groceries, not to mention automobiles and radios, which they are just beginning to liquidate. If he pays three percent tax on most commodities he buys, in very many cases it will be impossible to purchase needed supplies and at the same time make even small payments on past obligations.

"This direct decrease in buying power will be immediately reflected in a falling off of the business of the community. For the first time in four years merchants are beginning to be able to figure with any certainty where the money to meet invoices and pay-rolls is coming from. To decrease the market for his goods by the amount of the sales tax, will be to seriously interfere with the recovery program before it is well under way. Under the NRA, prices and wages have been raised in the belief that business will be stimulated and employment increased as a consequence. If rapid business improvement does not follow, there is no foundation upon which the price and wage level can be maintained.

What Tax Means.

"An illustration of what it will mean to take $52,000,000 out of mercantile channels in Ohio at this time, may be seen by examining the figures of East Liverpool business alone. Using the report on East Liverpool by the United States department of commerce in 1931 as a basis, the three per cent sales tax in our city alone would be $336,932 annually. The annual total of wages and salaries in the general merchandise group of stores, including department, dry goods, variety, five and ten, and up to a dollar stores, is $320,805. The burden imposed on East Liverpool business by a three percent sales tax would therefore be greater than to take out of this community the combined annual pay-roll of the entire general merchandise group of stores. The combined retail trade has a total annual pay-roll of $1,565,417. The burden of the proposed sales tax on East Liverpool business would therefore be equivalent to removing from local business almost one-fourth of the entire payroll of all retail trade in East Liverpool. Such a tax even in good times would be a severe penalty on business. To assess it while emerging from a depression would deal a terrific blow to recovery.

May Drive Business Over Border

"An additional disadvantage to the merchants in cities such as East Liverpool, Steubenville and Youngstown is that such a tax may be expected to drive a considerable amount of business over the border to buying centers in adjacent states.

"There is no need for a 3 per cent sales tax in Ohio. It is merely an expedient, and easy way out, and avoids grappling with fundamental tax problems. Such a tax is contrary to our experience in taxation. When business and industry were good and property values normal our tax funds were enormous and government spending increased proportionately. When business and property values fell taxes diminished. Taxes can and will return to the former level only when business, incomes, and property values justify, and not until then. Taxes are the income of government and like all income must depend upon the ability of the general public to pay. A sales tax would only serve to postpone permanent increase in tax volume by striking at its basis—better business. If three per cent on everything except groceries the consumer buys is taken immediately out of business channels, ability to buy is curtailed and sales lag. Improved tax incomes must follow better business and industry.

Funds Elsewhere for Schools

"The states general revenue fund into which the bulk of the taxes are paid will therefore increase as economic conditions improve. It is from this fund that adequate means should be forthcoming to finance the public schools. We have the assurance of our representative, Ila Cronin, that sufficient finance can be made available from the general revenue fund to provide for necessary public school expenses. We are undoubtedly emerging from the depression and Mrs. Cronin's position is that the expected increase in general revenue from all sources as a consequence, together with much needed economies and appropriations to bureaus and commissions that should be curtailed, will provide the needed funds for public schools, but the question at issue is one of method. The welfare of the public schools is linked arm in arm with general business conditions, and anything that tends to cripple the business of a community will in the long run injure our public institutions proportionately.

"The theory of those favoring the retail sales tax seems to be that expenditures for government must continue at the extravagant levels of the most prosperous years, and that the portion of the burden to be removed by the 10-mill limitation on real estate must be put back on the people in some form. The sales tax will not only make the total burden greater than before but as before mentioned will place the greatest share of the burden upon the wage earner, who pays most of his income for necessary commodities. Such a plan is opposed to the needs and expressed desire of the taxpayers for economy. There must be some relation to the cost of government and private income. Included in any tax program at this time must be an economy, which calls for the elimination of unnecessary and extravagant expenditures and reduction of taxes to the ability of the public to pay. The budgets of the individual, the family, and business units are curtailed. To attempt to maintain the former level in government expenditures would be manifestly impractical. A rigid economy occupies a prominent position in the plan of those who oppose the three percent sales tax.

Alternative Plan Suggested

"As another factor in an alternative plan to the sales tax, there is the possibility of revenue from the enormous amount of delinquent taxes throughout the entire state. At the present time there are more than $200,000,000.00 of delinquent taxes in the state. In the same way as all other past due obligations an increasing percentage of these will be paid as incomes and property values improve. Collection of a considerable percentage of these would make additional revenue from new sources unnecessary. Steps have already been taken by opponents of the sales tax in the legislature to realize revenue from this source. On Wednesday, March 31, the Ohio senate passed substitute senate bill No. 20, by Senator Lewis, relative to the publication of the delinquent tax list. As the bill is now drawn, it will be mandatory that the delinquent tax list be published in every county in the state. In many of those counties where publication has already been made the tax delinquencies are small. By establishing other proper means for collecting from this large source, much will be done toward providing the revenue contemplated by a sales tax.

"The experience of our neighboring states should give us warning. Pennsylvania tried the retail sales tax and after six months abandoned it as impractical. In many cases the tax could not be collected, and the merchants either became tax collectors or took the burden of the tax themselves, and it proved too big to absorb. In West Virginia it is now being tried and much confusion is evident. Our representatives are being subjected to terrific pressure these days by lobbyists, and our big danger is that a tired legislature will seize upon this tax as a mere expediency, which affords the quickest way to get home."

MRS. MARGARET HAMILTON

Mrs. Margaret Hamilton, 25, wife of Earl Hamilton, died Monday at 3:30 p. m. at her home in Negley following a long illness.

She was born in Negley on March 24, 1909, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Keeney. She married Mr. Hamilton on April 18, 1929. Mrs. Hamilton was a member of the Negley Methodist Episcopal church.

MOTOR SHARES LEAD MARKET

Tobaccos, Rails Firm, Utilities Hesitate In Dealings.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Motor shares led the stock market in a quiet early advance today. Tobaccos were firm, as were some of the rails, but utilities hesitated.

Advances of major fractions to a point or so were shown by Santa Fe, Ligget & Myers B, American Tobacco B, National Distillers, Motor Products, Chrysler, Hudson, General Motors, and U. S. Steel. J. J. Newberry rose more than 2. Nash dipped following yesterday's adverse dividend action. American Telephone was steady, but Consolidated Gas eased a share. Call money renewed at one per cent.

Although the sharp jump in steel operations was attributed partly to the efforts of consumers to "beat the gun" on higher prices, the indicated current rate of 47.4 per cent of capacity against 43.3 a week ago is higher than generally expected.

There was nothing especially striking in the Federal Reserve board's weekly condition statement showing, as of April 4, increases of $127,000,000 in net demand deposits, $131,000,000 in the amount due from banks and $36,000,000 in loans and investments. Loans on securities advanced $55,000,000 and "all other" loans were up $21,000,000.

MAINS BROKEN IN WELLSVILLE

Water Line Trouble Due to Cold, Imbrie Reports.

Service-Safety Director George B. Imbrie, of Wellsville, said today that he attributed recent breaks in water mains at various places in the city to the extreme cold weather last month.

Repairs were made Monday night to the distribution main at Second and Broadway, while another crew of men were started at work repairing the break in the Belt Line sewer at Eighth and Diamond streets.

The largest break took place in Clark avenue, west of 25th street, where a large section of the road surface was lifted by force of the water flow. This has since been placed in good repair.

A section of new pipe is being laid in the main east of Third street adjacent to the old Pennsylvania Railroad company depot.

SALES TAX ON COUPON BOOKS

Meal Tickets Also Hit By West Virginia Measure.

CLARKSBURG, W. V., April 10.—Fred L. Fox, state tax commissioner, outlawed coupon books and meal tickets under the new state two percent consumers' sales tax, in an address before the second annual convention of the West Virginia Association of Retail Grocers, here Monday.

These, Fox declared, are direct evasions of the law, although many stores and restaurants have adopted them. A tax must be collected upon each transaction, he said, and a transaction consists of a trip to a store, the purchase of merchandise and cash payment for the amount of the whole transaction or its entry upon credit books.

Nor can the tax be charged as two per cent of a total bill at the end of a month, Fox stated, but must be computed for each transaction, except in purchases of milk and ice regularly delivered.

The tax commissioner also declared that merchants in border cities must charge the sales tax to customers from other states expecting when delivery and payment are made in those states, which then makes the transaction interstate commerce.

Your Health

By Dr. R. S. Copeland.

NOT SO long ago I told you how to plan a feeding schedule for the baby. It was pointed out that a well arranged routine schedule would materially lessen the work of the young mother and benefit the baby. Since then many inquiries have come to me concerning a program for the older child.

No one will deny that children who are brought up on an orderly program thrive better than children who do not receive such supervision. They are happier and healthier children.

I am often asked, when should a child be able to feed himself? When should he show an interest in helping to keep his room tidy and in order?

Every child between the ages of two and three should be able to assist in putting on his clothes. He should be instructed to help put on his bloomers and legings, and place his arms in the sleeves of his sweater coat and sweater.

Encourage Child to Do Things

Of course I do not mean to say that a child of this age should be expected to dress himself entirely or perform the difficult task of tying or untying his shoe laces. But he certainly should be able to take off his own rubbers, slippers and other easily removed articles of wearing apparel.

At this age it is a good plan to encourage a child to wash and dry his hands alone. Though he will not remove all the dirt and do as good a job as mother would, the early training will soon enable him to assume full responsibility. Children quickly acquire habits, and if the program is to be a well regulated one, they should be good habits.

A child of three to four years should be able to undo his button and button them up as well. This is simplified by making sure that clothes are equipped with large buttons and large buttonholes. The age he should be expected to put on and take off his shoes, tie shoes, remove his rubbers, wash and dry his hands, as well as comb his hair and brush his teeth.

At the Age of Five

When a child reaches the age of five he should be well established in the personal habit program. He should be an aid to his mother in dressing and undressing should be a simple matter for this child. Of course, it is well if the clothing is equipped with simple and unconcealed fasteners. I am glad to say that most modern clothing is equipped with "zippers." This invention is a blessing to the busy mother.

Perhaps no habit of childhood is more important than that of eating. Every child should have his meals at a regular time every day. No food should be given between meals. Contrary to a common belief, a child should be allowed to feed himself as soon as possible. Between the ages of 12 to 18 months he should be permitted to handle the cup and spoon.

Encourage the child to eat without coaxing, urging or offering of prizes. If the child does not eat, it is best to remove the food rather than to threaten him with punishment.

Thousands have Ended their Bowel Worries
by taking this advice!

Can constipation safely be relieved? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say the many thousands who have followed their advice and know.

You are not likely to cure your constipation with salts, pills, tablets or any of the habit-forming cathartics. But you can safely relieve this condition by gentle regulation with a suitable liquid laxative.

THE LIQUID TEST:

First: select a properly prepared liquid laxative. Second: take the dose you find suited to your system. Third: gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving of their own accord.

Simple, isn't it? And it works! The right liquid laxative brings thorough bowel action without using force. An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, and perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna, a natural laxative; the dose can be measured, and the action thus regulated to suit your individual need.

If there are children in your household, don't give them any fad form of laxative, but use a healthful, helpful preparation like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Its very taste will tell you it is wholesome, and agreeable to the stomach. Delightful taste, and delightful action; there is no discomfort at the time, or after. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, all ready to take.

WE DO OUR PART

A Frank Statement Concerning Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

We believe the use of pills and tablets containing mineral drugs is rapidly giving way to gentle regulation of the bowels with a liquid laxative.

We believe Dr. Caldwell's original prescription of fresh herbs, pure pepsin, and senna is the ideal family laxative.

And we know it is a safe preparation for children and expectant mothers because it does not cause bowel strain or irritate the kidneys.

Operates for only 3c A DAY

Don't hesitate to ask all the questions you think of when you consider the purchase of an automatic refrigerator.

We have listed four pertinent questions above. And we believe that the New Air-Cooled Electrolux has the best answers to all of them.

It costs less to run, because it operates upon a simpler, more efficient principle. A tiny gas flame circulates a simple refrigerant. Ordinary air cools it.

It's permanently silent, because it has nothing to make noise with.

It frees you from costly repairs because it has no moving parts to wear.

But Electrolux does not stop there. It has all the modern conveniences that make an automatic refrigerator a real joy to own.

Here are some of them:

Rubber ice-cube grid. New gleaming-white Newtone finish. Non-stop defrosting. Trigger tray release. Temperature regulator that speeds the freezing of ice cubes—and makes it easy to prepare delicious salads and desserts.

Please come in. We are sure that you'll share our enthusiasm for the New Air-Cooled Electrolux . . . it's so far in advance of all other refrigerators.

It's a real pleasure to own an Electrolux. And it's a pleasure, too, to know that your own gas company stands back of Electrolux and gladly services every one it sells.

CONFUSION ENDED ON BRAN

New Ruling Makes Labels Accurate

To protect the buying public, the United States Food and Drug Administration has advised that every package of cereal labeled "Bran" state on the label exactly what it contains.

Before this ruling, even part-bran products were sometimes mistakenly referred to as "Bran." It was not easy for the purchaser to distinguish between a cereal that was entirely bran, or all bran with flavoring, and another that was mostly wheat.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is labeled "ALL-BRAN Deliciously Flavored with Malt, Sugar and Salt," a statement which describes the product fairly and honestly.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has won millions of friends because it corrects most types of common constipation safely and pleasantly. It furnishes generous "bulk"—needed to promote normal elimination.

However, ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all." Certain types of intestinal disorders should be treated only on a physician's advice.

When you buy a bran cereal, for the relief of constipation, read the wording on the package. The facts are there! Make sure by asking for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It furnishes "bulk" in a form for satisfactory results.

At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Columbiana County Celebrated 131st Anniversary on April 6

Bill Establishing Boundary Lines, Signed by Governor Tiffin in 1803.

Columbiana county celebrated its 131st birthday last Friday. The county was organized on March 25, 1803 from parts of Washington and Jefferson counties. It was on April 6, 1803 that Gov. Edward Tiffin signed a bill which made Columbiana county a legal and political sub-division.

At this time, Columbiana county embraced the larger part of Carroll county and all of Stark county to the Tuscarawas river and five southern townships now a part of Mahoning county. The fanciful name of the county was designed as an honor to the memory of Christopher Columbus and Queen Anne.

In 1803 but five townships were comprised in the taxable sub-divisions of the county, these being Springfield, now a part of Mahoning county, Middleton, St. Clair, Salem and Center.

The first seat of county government and justice was founded in the barn of Mathias Lower, now in Fairfield township. In this barn a court of common pleas was opened by the appointees of Governor Tiffin, they being Calvin Peace, who was judge, assisted by associates William Smith, Henry Bachman and Robert Simison. This court convened in first session July 26, 1803.

According to history, only one session of court was held in the Lower barn, and the second meeting of the court is declared to have been in the tavern of Christian Smith in "New Lisbon," which is now Lisbon.

State government was then located at Chillicothe, and soon after the county was organized John Milligan was elected state senator and Richard Beeson, state representative.

Obadiah Jennings was the first sheriff of the county, and he also served as clerk of courts, receiving $50 for his first year of service. The grand jury in those early days was composed of 22 members. The jury received $32.70 for its services during the term of court.

Ferguson, the only male heir of Lord Novar, decided finally three years ago against giving up his citizenship—a condition of the inheritance. His father was Robert Ferguson, younger brother of Lord Novar.

MIDLAND SIGNS FOR GRID BATTLES HERE

One-Year Contract Accepted

Steelers Now in Midst Of Spring Training Drills.

BY ROBERT ELLIOTT,
Sports Editor, The Review.

With the announcement that terms offered by East Liverpool high school had been accepted, the 1934 Midland high football schedule today stood completed and Coach W. P. "Rusty" Lomond wore a more cheerful expression as he sent his gridiron hopefuls through their spring drills at Crucible field.

Midland signed a one-year contract with the local school, the terms calling for the Steelers to appear here in a night game. Midland will receive 35 per cent of the receipts with their share not to exceed $300. Last year the Midland club received 40 per cent with no limit.

The completed Midland schedule is as follows:

Sept. 22—at Beaver.
Sept. 29—Rochester at home.
Oct. 5—at North Braddock.
Oct. 13—at Aliquippa.
Oct. 19—at East Liverpool.
Oct. 27—New Brighton at home.
Nov. 3—at Beaver Falls.
Nov. 10—Ambridge at home.
Nov. 17—Tentatively open.
Nov. 24—Monaca at home.

Lomond announced Monday that the Midland spring practice sessions would continue indefinitely. The Steel City school is the only one in the East Liverpool district holding spring practice, the Ohio schools being banned from sponsoring drills by a state ruling.

Prospects for a good eleven next fall at Midland are bright, despite the fact that Lomond loses 12 of his 18 lettermen from the 1933 squad by graduation in June. The returning veterans include four linesmen: Captain-elect Joe Rakas, Steve Bizic, Paul Pitz and Joe Yurich. The backfield veterans are George Ordich and Alfred Monaca, a pair of small but fast ball-toters.

Lettermen from last year who will be lost by graduation are Eli Bizic, Guido Delphia, George Komora, Bill Komora, Mike Klipich, Benny Pultanovich, Charley Schmidt, Dan Mullen, William Vinovich, Milan Kosanovich, Tony Rosatone and George Milic.

Ted Bomestar, the hard-hitting fullback of the 1933 Aliquippa team, who transferred to Midland at the start of the current semester, will be eligible next fall, however, and he is certain to be a huge aid to the Lomond squad.

Pirates Tackle Nats Saturday

Altrock and Schacht To Appear In Pittsburgh.

Western Pennsylvania baseball fans are to have the novelty of viewing the Pirates in action 10 days prior to the opening of the 1934 championship race, for on Saturday afternoon, April 14, the Buccaneers take on the Washington Senators, last year champions of the American league, in an exhibition game at Forbes field, Pittsburgh.

This is the first time in the history of the Pirate club that an advance showing has been given. Of course, the game simply is of an exhibition nature but this year the rivalry between the American and National leagues has been more bitter than usual, as witness the accident to Rabbit Maranville of the Braves playing against the Yankees, and a splendid game is looked for. The Pirates especially will be out to win in their first appearance before a home crowd. The opening of the regular championship season comes on Tuesday, April 24, the Buccos meeting Frankie Frisch's St. Louis Cardinals.

Washington, in addition to having a former Pirate, in the person of Joe Cronin, as manager, will bring to the Steel City several American league stars such as Heinie Manush, Fred Schulte, Luke Sewell and Ossie Bluege, not to mention baseball's greatest clowns, Nick Altrock and Al. Schacht, who will do their stunts prior to the game which will start at 3.

Mourning is Costly For Parisian Hotels

PARIS—France's official mourning period for the death of King Albert has cost Parisian hotel proprietors a fat amount of francs. When Prime Minister Doumergue ruled that the ministers in his cabinet were not to attend public functions, banquets in the capital were badly hit. "Four what," say the French, "is a banquet without a gros legume (a big vegetable)". The hotel people, employers and employes are finding that question a tough one to answer.

RESUME HOCKEY PLAY TONIGHT

CHICAGO, April 10.—The fourth installment of the Stanley cup playoffs will be presented tonight in the Chicago stadium, with the Chicago Black Hawks making another attempt to end the struggle, and the Detroit Red Wings battling to keep it going.

The Hawks need only one more victory to win the world professional hockey championship, for the first time since they entered the national league. They needed only one more Sunday night, but the Wings, beaten twice on their own ice, clicked for the first time of the series and skated off with a 5 to 2 victory.

SWIMMING DOGS MAKE PROBLEM

CINCINNATI, April 9.—Swimming dogs are worrying city fathers here following complaints from H. H. Selmeier, Pleasant Ridge.

Selmeier reports dogs swimming in his pond have caused the fish to disappear. Six or eight large dogs have also invaded his yard and damaged plants, Selmeier complains.

Invasions have reached the point where Selmeier wonders whether his family will have the freedom of their yard or turn it over to the dogs.

SINGING WOOD LOOKS GOOD IN TRAINING

Singing Wood is one of Mrs. John Hay Whitney's candidates for the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, May 5. The colt, sired by the famous foreign stallion, Royal Minstrel, carried the Whitney silks to victory last year in the world's richest race, the Belmont Futurity. He topped the money winning list with earnings totaling $88,050. His handlers report Singing Wood has looked good in early training.

Ross To Battle McLarnin

Welterweight Title Scrap Set For May 28.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—One of Indiana's few remaining "naturals," a welterweight championship bout between Jimmy McLarnin and Barney Ross, had definitely been lined up today.

Formal signing of contracts was delayed until today but the rival managers had agreed to terms for a 15-round bout here May 28. Although the site had not yet been definitely selected, it was regarded as probable McLarnin and his challenger would settle their dispute in Madison Square Garden's Long Island Bowl. The milk fund will share in the receipts.

The bout may outdraw the heavyweight championship match between Primo Carnera and Max Baer which the Garden is promoting in the Long Island bowl June 14, because of the large Jewish and Irish population of New York.

McLarnin always has been a favorite here despite the fact that his mighty fists have beaten down several Jewish idols, notably Benny Leonard, Sid Terris, Ruby Goldstein and Al Singer. Ross is of Jewish extraction.

BRIDGE PROBLEM PROVES COSTLY

DENVER — It's the woman—in this case four of them—who pay. They got into an argument about the correct way to cut cards for a bridge deal. Some one suggested wiring a nationally famous authority in New York.

They did. The expert wired back, collect, an explanation of how he thought the cards should be cut.

At the end of the month came a statement for "services . . . $250.00."

"We don't have to pay that," the enraged bridge players declared in one voice. "We'll see our lawyer."

"Better pay," the lawyer advised. They paid.

Another month-end rolled around and with it a statment from the lawyer, "for services."

State Library Service Will be Extended Soon

COLUMBUS, April 10.—Extension of the state library's traveling service to every community of the state, so that no one is deprived of reading material because of lack of funds, is the aim of State Librarian Paul A. T. Noon.

The library's traveling service permits schools and other institutions to borrow books at no expense. Already 500 organizations in the state are being served in this way, it was said.

In some cases, it was pointed out, books borrowed from the state library, make up entire school collections.

Ohio Civil Service Action Ruled Illegal

COLUMBUS, O., April 10.—The state civil service commission's practice of requiring applications for examinations to state their race on the application blank and to attach a photograph is held illegal in a ruling by the attorney general.

The ruling was made at the request of Representative Chester Gillespie (R) Cleveland, who claimed the practice of the civil service commission was prejudicial against negroes seeking to take the examination for state liquor store positions.

Pirates Get Third Position

Terrymen Poll 40 Votes to 34 For Bruins.

(This is second of two stories detailing the results of the annual Associated Press major league pennant poll.)

By ALAN GOULD,
Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Major league baseball experts who agreed the Giants would finish no higher than sixth in last year's National league race, have done the handsome thing this spring by picking them to repeat their triumph.

It remains to be seen just how Bill Terry's club will react to this startling vote of confidence. Their performances so far along the exhibition route have not been altogether becoming to world champions, but it will be time enough to use the yardstick on the Giants when the games begin to count in the standing of the clubs.

Cards Get 13 Votes.

Meanwhile the ballots in the eighth annual Associated Press pennant poll testify that the Chicago Cubs are the team most likely to oust the Giants from the top in another of those dramatic five-horse races for which John Arnold Heydler's circuit is famous. Of the 97 writers and editors contributing to the poll's consensus, 40 pick the Giants to repeat, while 34 name the Cubs to finish on top. The St. Louis Cardinals have 13 backers for their hopes of taking first money and the Pittsburgh Pirates only nine, but in the consensus the Bucs land third place. The solitary remaining vote for first place goes to Boston's battling Braves, who face an uphill job unless they can replace Rabbit Maranville at second base successfully.

The vote for the Cubs proved surprisingly heavy and was not entirely confined to the western wing of the Baseball Writers' association of America. The preference for the Bruins over the Pirates was based on the majority belief of the experts that Chuck Klein, National league batting king, will add much more strength to Chicago's lineup than the acquisition of Pitcher Red Lucas will mean to Pittsburgh.

May be New Deal.

The Braves finished fourth, a notch ahead of the Cardinals, last year, but the consensus favors a reversal of this order for 1934.

Otherwise the experts see no change in prospect. The Brooklyn Dodgers, Philadelphia Phillies and Cincinnati Reds are consigned to finish the way they did last year—sixth, seventh and eighth. The vote among these three is unusually close, however, indicating a new deal in the second division would not be a shock to the watchers in the press box.

TEXAN TELLS OF "DOGIES"

SWEETWATER, Tex.—The little "dogie," celebrated in "The Last Roundup," really is a worthless little critter and doesn't reserve all the furor that has raged over him since the song became popular, says John M. Hendrix, secretary of the Sweetwater Development board.

Hendrix explained the dogies, pronounced "doughgie" and spelled either "dogie" or "dogey," is a worthless calf that has neither thrived nor developed since its birth.

The word, according to Hendrix, originated thus:

"An old ranch lady in Clay and Montague counties, Tex., instructed cowboys to bring in all motherless calves so that she might attempt to raise them on gentle cows, or by bottle.

"The lady's cowboys, none too pleased with the idea of lugging a bawling, squirming calf eight or ten miles in the saddle with them, began to refer to the lady's collection of orphaned calves as "dough guts," which, by common usage, became eventually "dogey."

It is common knowledge in cattle country, Hendrix explained, that a stunted or under-privileged animal, when given an unusual amount of food, develops an abnormal paunch, which is sometimes referred to as "pot," of "dough belly," hence the name "dough guts," and finally "dogey."

Crawford County Fair Prizes to be Reduced

BUCYRUS, April 10.—The Crawford county fair board executive committee has voted to eliminate all third prizes from this year's premium list and to reduce first and second awards about 25 per cent. The board has also decided to hold horse races but two days instead of three. It was only recently decided to have a fair this year, the first in three years, it having been abandoned because of lack of finances.

CINCINNATI, April 10.—After learning the woman had been struck on the head with a saxophone in a fight, police began an investigation of the death of Mrs. Willie Meinchatt.

Browns And Cardinals On Way Home To Open Annual Series

Phillies and Athletics Play Second Game of City Competition Today.

ST. LOUIS, April 10. — Five weeks of training in the south behind them, the St. Louis major league clubs, the Cardinals and Browns, were en route home today to open a five game city series Wednesday.

PHILADELPHIA—The Phillies are hosts at Baker Bowl today for the first time this year, hoping to hand the Athletics another drubbing with their team cut to the limit required for the summer, 23 men. Rookies disposed of yesterday left Connie Mack with nine pitchers, three catchers, six infielders and five outfielders.

2—3—BROWNS—

MACON, Ga.—Confident the Cincinnati Reds are prepared to launch their most powerful attack in years, Manager Bob O'Farrell today outlined his plans for the opening game against the Chicago Cubs. Si Johnson, young right hander, has been selected to hurl against the Bruins. O'Farrell will be backstop. Bottomley will be at first base, Piet at second, Koenig at third and Slade at shortstop. In the outfield will be Comorosky in left, Hafey in center and Shiver in right.

WASHINGTON—The Braves and Senators meet today—then the Tribesmen leave for home.

The Tribe, after a dubious start, has made a pretty good record for the spring exhibition schedule. Dropping four games in a row to the Yanks, they have lost but twice since then. The count to date is 12 victories and six defeats—.666 ball.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Al Lopez' persistent holdout campaign against the Brooklyn Dodgers apparently didn't do him any harm. He has been named captain of the team, an honor that adds $500 to his season's pay.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala.—Don't let Bill Terry hear you do any yowling with alarm so far as the world champion New York Giants are concerned. "This time last year we had nothing," Bill points out. "We hadn't developed yet. Now we have not been hitting and at times we have looked lousy, me included. But we'll hit. We have more power than we had a year ago.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—The Detroit Tigers have sold Isadore Golstein, right handed pitcher, to Montreal. It was his third time up in the majors and the Tigers had let him go without an option. Goldstein's lack of consistent control has kept him just outside the majors.

CHICAGO— Woody English apparently has won back from Augie Galan the job of playing third base for the Chicago Cubs. English has recovered from eye and foot ailments, while Galan has shown that he needs more experience before becoming a regular.

TUCUMCARI, N. M. — Larry (Fireball) French was assigned to the Pittsburgh Pirates mound today against the White Sox. The selection of French, ace of the Pirate staff, was probably a result of the 17 to 7 rout which the Chicagoans administered to their barnstorming mates in Albuquerque, yesterday.

GREENSBORO, N. C.—The Red Sox came to town today with Fred Ostermueller and Rube Walberg scheduled to do the pitching against Greensboro.

CATFISH TELL QUAKE SECRETS

OSAKA, Japan—Officials of the Osaka weather bureau are engaged in the admitted difficult task of making some 50 catfish tell what they know about earthquakes.

For several years, scientists at the Tohoku Imperial university have noticed that catfish are disturbed at other times also. Chief Ohashi, director of the bureau, hopes to learn by close observation whether the catfish gives a reaction sufficiently distinct to enable him to forecast earthquakes accurately. He has installed the catfish in a tank at his home, where he will study their sign language.

DENY BRUNNER RESIGNATION

COLUMBUS, O., April 10.—Henry G. Brunner has attempted to resign as state manager of the home owners' loan corporation, said reports here but in Washington they are denied.

Brunner would not deny or confirm the reports, and Senator Bulkley in Washington said he did not care to comment.

Baseball Practice Starts

Plenty of Hard Work Ahead of Local Diamond Mentor.

Some 100-odd East Liverpool high school students, prospective members of Leland Schachern's varsity baseball team, today are likely nursing sore arms and the other miseries which generally follow the first diamond drills of any season.

"Shack" held his first diamond practice last evening at Patterson field and the turnout of candidates was gratifying to those who want to see the national pastime return to its former place of prominence here.

Nothing much was done at the opening drill, Schachern tentatively dividing the candidates into classifications as batterymen, infielders and outfielders. In all probability, nothing will be done toward forming a varsity team for at least a week or possibly longer.

The boys took things fairly easy yesterday. It will take a week or more for the twirling candidates to get their arms sufficiently loosened up to show what they have to offer.

No games have been booked as yet Schachern announced, although letters for contests have been sent out to a number of neighboring schools.

Possibility of another district school sponsoring a baseball team also appeared today with the announcement that Wellsville officials were considering organizing a diamond squad.

While the Wellsville school would not officially recognize the team, it was understood that plans were being considered to attempt to play a few games under the school's name.

MALADY CLAIMS FIRST VICTIM

Memphis Woman Succumbs To Leukemia, for Which No Cure Has Been Found.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 10. — Leukemia, that disease for which Memphis physicians say they have found no cure, had claimed one life today, and a little girl continued her war against the malady and what doctors have termed "almost certain death."

After an illness of eight weeks, Mrs. Hattie Buchanan McKinnon, died late yesterday. Willie Mae Miller, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Miller, was reported slightly improved today, but medical observers expressed doubt as to her recovery.

In leukemia, doctors say, the white corpuscles rout the red corpuscles from the blood stream.

Bed Clothing Given By Mercy Organization

A report issued today showed that the East Palestine Red Cross organization has furnished 10 comforts, 11 pairs of blankets and one quilt to needy families since last December.

The sewing room of the organization is located in the Wood street school building and is in charge of Mrs. Lou Whan.

Debate is Featured At Baptist Church

The affirmative team won a debate on the question, "Resolved, That Love is More Powerful Than Money," which featured a program presented Monday night in the Second Baptist church in East End. About 200 persons attended the meeting.

Samuel W. Whitfield and Clarence Tyne took the negative side of the argument, while the affirmative was defended by John Thornton and William Mason, both of Midland.

Sailors Spend

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 10 —The whole American fleet left the Pacific Monday; it had to, in order to be away around on the Atlantic side by the time war broke out in Japan and Russia.

Eastern sea coast congressmen demand the sailors spend some wages in their towns; western ones want the same. The government ought to let each town (east and west) figure out how much the navy spends there, then let the government pay it, but let it be done with the understanding that politicians and Chambers of Commerce have no hold on the fleet and that it can be placed wherever it's needed.

Yours,
Will Rogers

REED GUEST OF CREDIT BUREAU

Smith & Phillips Store Executive Addresses Weekly Luncheon Of Tri-State Group.

"The word credit is derived from Greek, meaning 'to trust,'" Donald Reed, credit manager of the Smith & Phillips Music company, said in an address at a luncheon-meeting of the Tri-State Credit bureau at the Y. M. C. A. Monday at noon.

"As far back as Napoleon, loans were floated to finance combats," Reed said, "but up until the Civil War, no collateral was thought necessary. They depended entirely upon a person's honesty and character.

"Future business will depend to a great extent upon the merchant's ability to extend credit wisely, the three most important factors being willingness to pay, stability of habits, and character and reputation."

SWICK, DAVIS APPROVE CANAL

Pennsylvania Legislators Give Indorsement to Proposed Beaver, Mahoning Improvements.

A letter from Congressman J. Howard Swick to the Beaver Falls city council that he is in full accord with the proposed canalization of the Beaver and Mahoning rivers, was received Monday. Another letter came from U. S. Senator James J. Davis that he favors an all-Pennsylvania canal.

The letters came in answer to telegrams that they support the omnibus bill now pending before congress, which includes an appropriation for the canal from Rochester, Pa., to Youngstown.

Class to Dedicate Lighted Cross April 28

The Men's Brotherhood of the First Church of Christ held its monthly "Forty and One" meeting Monday night in the church with an attendance of more than 40 members. Arthur Leading, blind baritone soloist of radio station WADC, Akron, presented a program of songs and instrumental selections.

Loren Orr, class president, announced that the cross on the top of the copper dome of the church would de dedicated at a public service on Sunday night, April 28. The class is also making plans for its final indoor meeting on May 7.

Lockman's Body is Found in Ohio River

The body of Robert P. Fozel, formerly lockman at lock No. 2 in the Allegheny river at Aspinwall, Pa., who was drowned March 1, was found in the Ohio river, near Lock No. 6 at Beaver, Monday.

Wickets at locks in the Ohio river, which have been down for more than a week because of high water, will be raised Wednesday, officials said. The river is still falling slowing, a stage of 13 feet being reported at lock No. 8 today at noon.

Governor White Praises CCC In Arbor Day Proclamation

Executive Urges Planting of Trees, Shrubbery by Citizens of State on Friday.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 10.—The work of the civilian conservation corps was praised today by Governor George White in his annual proclamation of Arbor day, Friday, April 13, this year. The proclamation follows:

"That unseen power which holds our planet constant in its polarity brings us day by day into a more and more favorable position to receive and absorb the life-giving energy so mysteriously hidden in the brightening sunshine. Grass, flowers and leaves have started into newness of life, and the cheering song of birds complete the announcement of the Eastertide.

Vast Areas Reclaimed.

"But even while nature has slept through a long and unusually severe winter, thousands of the finest young men of America have been employed throughout the nation in preparing and planting vast areas of waste and otherwise unproductive land, thus making more beautiful, pleasurable and valuble this wonderful country of ours.

"The things for which lovers of nature have hoped, planned and labored for many years, as they have found expression in Arbor and Bird day programs activities, have been advanced in a twelvemonth far beyond the most extreme expectation for years to come. Out of our adversity we thus sense the hastened realization of our dreams; unemployment has been turned into an unmitigated blessing in this direction at least.

Beautification Recommended.

"It seems, therefore, particularly appropriate that we should this year approach the celebration of Arbor day and Bird day with a degree of enthusiasm that we have never felt for a similar occasion. Let us join heartily with the boys of the C. C. C. camps in making this the outstanding year in the history of reforestation and of its attendant blessings.

"To the happy consummation of this purpose, I, therefore, George White, governor of Ohio, do hereby proclaim and set aside Friday, April 13, 1934, as Arbor day and Bird day, and do hereby call upon all citizens, including those in the schools of the state, to engage in the planting of trees, in the beautification of natural surroundings, and in the provision of havens for the protection of birds. Thus shall we serve our day and generation, and preserve for our posterity those beneficient gifts of nature."

BLOND GODDESS

A New Serial by Herbert Jensen

SYNOPSIS: Frank Grahame, Bill Langton, Janice Kent, and their worst enemy the high priest of the savage Yucatan jungle tribe that has tried to kill all of them, are trapped in a jungle valley. The high priest is badly injured and helpless. But the rainy season is beginning, and soon the valley will be filled with water. Frank plans to float in a balsa-wood jacket down an underground river to the sea, and bring aid—if he is not drowned.

Chapter 42

THE START

"With luck," repeated Langton, "I can be back here and get you out. With a ship I could fly from the coast to here in 20 minutes."

Frank smiled remotely. Turning on his heels he walked back to the shack. His movements thereafter were methodical.

He brought out the balsa-wood jacket, and for the time being, set it aside. He brought out two coconut shells, split and put together again and sealed with pitch.

Within them was a quantity of dried meat, matches and — he smiled at the apparent incongruity of it—the matted pad of his book of traveler's checks. They could be used at the coast—if ever he got there.

The two coconut shells he slipped into a bit of fiber netting he had made for them. This arrangement could be tied to the jacket float.

He put on the crude device that was to keep him afloat—with luck—for the eight or 10 hours he would be swept through the unknown cavern. Although the morning was not warm beads of perspiration gathered upon his face.

It was with a straining effort of will that he banished thoughts of the accidents that might happen to him in the darkness.

Would the river be like the surface ones? Would there be waterfalls, rapids, or jagged submerged rocks to tear at him as he passed? Might not eddies sweep him into blind pockets where he would thrash his way about until exhaustion claimed him?

He walked down the trail to the stream's edge. Langton, straining at the tying of the last timbers of the raft, looked up startled. Janice, coils of fiber in her hands, approached from up stream. Puzzled she looked at the crude girth of the balsa-wood jacket.

She said in a curious voice, "Frank, what is that? What do you intend? . . ."

"Nothing doing, Frank — that's my job," said Langton quietly.

Frank's voice as he replied was level and brittle.

"Nothing you can say—or do, for that matter—will alter the plan, Billy. This is just a job I can do better than you can under the circumstances. We'll say no more about it!"

Janice made a gesture of appeal to Langton. Her face was pale beneath its tanned silkiness. "What is it, Billy?" What is he going to do?"

"He's going to float down the cavern to the sea and get help. If a pop bottle made it, so can he, he thinks."

The girl put the palm of her hand to her mouth. Her eyes widened. The coils of fiber over her slim shoulder fell to the ground.

"No!" she whispered. "Oh, no . . . please!"

Frank stepped into the water. His face was set. "Billy," he began, turning to his friend, "before I start, I have a few suggestions—

Janice splashed into the water beside him. Her hands caught him by the shoulders and she pulled at him until he faced her.

"You're not going!" she exclaimed breathlessly. "You can't! You shouldn't! She tugged at him with little desperate jerks.

"Either Billy or I must. Please, Janice. Billy will explain. We haven't much time now, since the rain. I've—"

"You mustn't . . . either you or Billy. What do you think I am? What do you think I'd be if I let you . . . ?" Her voice broke on a little note of hysteria. "The raft is nearly ready. We'll all go together. Wry should one of us take risks for the others? The raft will support us all—"

Gently Frank put up his arms and disengaged the girl's hands from his shoulders. He turned his face toward Langton.

"Bill, it would be a good idea, I think, to make more of these jackets to wear on the raft when the water rises. Provide your self with a stout rope and a rock for an anchor. And a long rope with a stone to throw to the bank. You might get close enough and high enough to reach the cliff tops. I'll be back. I'll be all right—"

The girl was sobbing against him. She lifted a tear-wet face.

"Frank," she cried with choked voice, "Frank, dear. You said once you love me! As you love me, please don't go! Billy, stop him!"

"You don't know what you're saying. I love you, Frank; I love you so much that I'd—Frank, I'd die if anything happened. Take me with you! We'll go tonight—er—"

His heart ached. He blinked his eyes to clear away the mistiness. Ht was pained that her distress had brought her to confess a love he believed she did not—could not—feel.

He pressed her gently from him. He backed into the water. She strove to follow. Step by step she waded deeper, still facing him. Over his shoulder he sent a glance to Langton—a glance both helpless and full of appeal.

Langton hobbled into the water beside them. Gently but with firmness he took her by the arm. Trance-like she stared at Frank, who backed away toward midstream. The water swirled above his waist.

Janice's face was dazed; pain showed in her eyes, but with Langton's hand upon her arm she made no move to follow Frank. The water eddied under his crude lifebelt. He was floating.

Swiftly the current caught him. He saw the bank and the figures of the man and girl recede. As the darkening shadow of the cavern's mouth fell upon him, he saw Janice turn her head suddenly and bury her face against the sight of his disappearance.

Langton lifted his hand and dropped it. It was like a salute.

Blackness. Impenetrable blackness.

The water, gurgling about him, seemed to Frank like a living invisible substance. He was conscious of a variety of sensations. At one moment he felt that he was suspended immovable in a void, at another it seemed that he was being impelled forward in a vacuum—a swift, silent projectile—and must sooner or later crash into extinction.

He strove to unclench his aching teeth, to allow the nervous rigidity of his muscles to relax. He wondered if he could bear for several hours this vivid expectation of annihilating impact.

Then suddenly he was curiously aware of a glow about him; it was at the level of his shoulders, below him, surrounding him; but it was not above his head. It came from the water; it was minutes before his reason informed him that these were phosphorescent glimmerings in the water.

By counting he tried to estimate the time he had been within the cavern. Already it seemed hours, but he realized that it was probably much less than that.

He splashed his way to the right or left until his outstretched hand would touch the side wall. He hoped to estimate the speed of his drifting by finger-tip contact with the stone.

But it was slimy and chill, foul with a slippery growth that brought to mind the wormy life that lived within the jungle swamp - bogs. Thereafter he tried to keep in midstream.

The gurgling grew louder, the phosphorescence brightened. Dimly he could see the tufts and plumes of glowing light as the current splashed and whirled against the dank walls.

Suddenly he struck something that gave. Long, fingerlike tendrils raked his face. He cursed his repugnance and strove to claw away the obstruction.

He was held tightly. The current seethed and swirled about him, tugging at him. Automatically he looked upward. A faint gray slit parallel with the current was above him, so close that it seemed he could reach it.

Instantly he realized his situation. Here was a break in the cavern roof—the beginning of a cenote—and the obstruction that held him was a netting of vines growing over the lip of the opening down to the water.

He thrashed himself loose. The tendrils were gone from about his face! the gray slit above disappeared.

He was beginning to feel chilled. Long weeks in the sun had thinned his blood. The water in this underground stream was touched by the sun only at the intervals that it appeared from the caverns.
